GREETINGS

In the pages to follow we have tried to give a faithful and accurate record of life at Wesleyan during this present school year. We have tried to render justice to the whole student body, avoiding undue attention to any one class or group of organizations. All the interesting events of this splendid period could not receive merited attention. If there are glaring omissions we, the editors, are most culpable. If there are commendable features we are still but unprofitable servants. Our labors have been pleasant experiences. May pleasure also be the reward of the students, friends, and patrons who read these pages.

JUDGE CHARLES W. LYNCH

Judge Charles W. Lynch, A.M., LL.D.

His life is gentle and the elements
So mixed in him that Nature may stand up
And say to all the world, "This is a man!"

Charles Wesley Lynch, to whom the Class of '21 dedicate this the sixteenth volume of the Murmurmontis, is known to the public as a jurist of learning and experience, a true dispenser of justice. To his more intimate friends he is known as a champion of the highest ideals in the life of his community; a Christian gentleman.

Born and reared in Harrison County, West Virginia; he received his early training in the public schools of his native county. He is an alumnus of West Virginia University, having received his A.B. degree (1874) and his A.M. (1877). He has since been honored with the degree of LL.D. from our own Wesleyan.

After completing his college course we find him working for eight years as a public school teacher in Wirt and Harrison counties. In 1882 Mr. Lynch was admitted to the West Virginia Bar and began his long career as a lawyer. His political activities have been continuous and varied: member State House of Delegates (1883-4; 1891-2); prosecuting attorney Harrison County (1885-90); circuit judge of Harrison and Lewis counties (1905-13). On January 1, 1913, he entered upon his twelve year term as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of West Virginia.

Judge Lynch, despite his busy years, has found time to engage in religious and fraternal work. He was the honored Grand Master of Masons of West Virginia (1912-13). West Virginia Methodism has in him a staunch supporter and he goes as a delegate to the General Conference to be held at Des Moines, Iowa, in May of this year.

Wesleyan has been the recipient of many generous favors and, as a token of her respect, he was made a member of the Board of Trustees in 1909. As a fitting tribute to his scholarship and kindly interest he was unanimously chosen president of the Board, June 1913, a station he now occupies.

Our friend needs no feeble tribute we might endeavor to bestow upon him at this time. The Greater Wesleyan which is evolving under his direction will speak in the life of West Virginia thruout the coming years.

"A man who lives above the fog,
In public duty, and in private thinking."

PRESIDENT WALLACE F. FLEMING

Wallace B. Fleming, Ph. D.

"But in his duty prompt at every call,
 He watched and wept, he prayed and felt for all,
 And, as a bird each fond endearment tries,
 To tempt its new-hatched offspring to the skies,
 He tried each art, reproved each dall delay
 Allured to brighter worlds and led the way."

Our scholarly President is an imported product, being a native of Ohio. However, he has admirably acclimated himself to West Virginia conditions, and we unreservedly pronounce him the ideal college president.

Dr. Fleming is the possessor of four degrees of scholarship:

A.B. Muskingum College 1894

A.M. Muskingum College 1897

B.D. Drew Theological Seminary 1897

Ph.D. Columbia University 1914

After spending fourteen years in the active ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church he accepted the chair of Hebrew and Greek in Drew Theological Seminary. 1915 marks an epoch in Wesleyan history, for in that year Dr. Fleming accepted the presidency of this institution. In his characteristic way he has wrought miracles undreamed of by West Virginia Methodists of a decade past. In June of 1917 the campaign for a half million dollar endowment was achieved. This present year will witness the success of the Victory Fund of an additional half million. But our energetic president is not yet satisfied. With past performances for criteria we can but expect that his visions for the future will materialize.

DEAN THOS. W. RAUGHT

chiron

Thomas W. Haught, A.M.

“And we all praise famous men—
 Ancients of the College,
 For they taught in common sense—
 Tried to teach us common sense—
 Truth and God's Own Common Sense,
 Which is more than Knowledge.”

—Kipling.

Progressive in method, young in spirit, unique in manner, and buoyant in hope is our Dean. It might possibly cause some needless embarrassment so we refrain from giving the year of his nativity. However, strain our memories as we will, they will not disclose his advent.

Prof. Haught is a graduate of the old West Virginia Seminary. His A.B. bears the seal of West Virginia University; his A.M. was conferred by our own Wesleyan. He has done extensive post-graduate work in Chemistry at Harvard and Johns Hopkins.

As a practical school executive he is without a peer, and is known throughout this and other states in the best educational circles. Amid all the perplexities which arise in his responsible station, our Dean maintains a calm exterior and a judicious mind.

Campus and college halls with all their accoutrement may fade into oblivion, but the memory of our Dean will never be dimmed in our hearts. We can give no adequate verbal description of the thing we know as THE WESLEYAN SPIRIT, but here we have the living embodiment of that spirit. Endowments may come and go but Wesleyan received her richest gift when “Tommy” came.

Senior Class Editorial

In reviewing the history of nations the reader is impressed with the fact that occasionally it seems that everything in the universe has worked in harmony to bring about some event, the influence of which is world wide and everlasting and of inestimable value. To give a complete account of the past accomplishments of this class would be to write many pages. To foretell its future achievements would fill many volumes.

There is no history of all ages that will be of more interest or of greater value to the people of this nation than a record of the achievements of this Senior Class of West Virginia Wesleyan College. This class is unique in many particulars. It is greatest in number, talent, achievement and variety.

The Senior Class entered Wesleyan in the fall of 1916 with a membership of seventy-eight. Since that time the personnel of the class has so changed that now there are but forty-six with us.

In talent, too, the Senior Class is wonderful. Among these are those noted as singers, poets, short-story writers, readers, orators and beauties.

We also excel all other classes in achievements. At present Seniors fill the offices of President of Excelsior Literary Society; President of Y. M. C. A.; Vice-President of Y. W. C. A.; President of Chrestomathean Literary Society; Training Teacher in the Model School; Student Members of the Athletic Board, and all other leading offices of Wesleyan. Besides, some of the greatest responsibilities have fallen upon the shoulders of seniors, such as taking the chapel roll and setting model examples for the other classes. Some of the most marked and best lasting "Cases" have been originated by members of this class. By their energy and perseverance, at the request of the Faculty, the "Scheming Movement" in Wesleyan has been greatly augmented and benefited.

In the realms of athletics the Senior Class has made a record. Fisher, Beck and Hymes have played on the varsity for four years. Then, too, there are Milliron and Ross. Kelcel has coached the Buckhannon High School team in basketball for three years and his ability along this line has been well demonstrated by the splendid showing that B. H. S. has made in athletics.

"We have no way of judging the future but by the past," and with such a record of past triumphs why may we not contemplate a glorious future? Though we may never wear the statesman's laurels, the poet's chaplet of bays; though our influence may never reach beyond the boundaries of the deep and dark blue ocean, yet guided by an unshaken determination to do the right, we will have accomplished that which is so necessary to the welfare and happiness of people and the establishment of truth and justice.

Junior Class Editorial

Here's to the liveliest, busiest class
Within the walls of Wesleyan.
Every Junior girl's true blue,
And every man's a man.

In the early autumn of 1917, when W. V. W. C. flung open wide her welcome arms to our class of one hundred and two, little did the faculty and those erudite upperclassmen realize the potential greatness lying within the fertile minds of the illustrious Class of '21. Time and the ceaseless tide of human distractions have taken away a goodly number of our classmates; yet we still have with us an ambitious group of future doctors, lawyers, ministers, missionaries, publicists and business men. The future is looming bright with the glories of achievement.

Ours is the busiest class in Wesleyan. When there is a great, big job to be done, it is perfectly natural for a Junior to do it. Despite the fact that we have more responsibilities to meet than any other class, we are always on hand at the zero hour to help our school out of difficulties. Even a casual glance over the directories of the school organizations will show just how the Juniors are regarded by all who know them.

Our class officers for the school year 1919-20 are: Mahre Stark, President; F. Smith Lowther, Vice-President; Orpah Haymond, Secretary and Treasurer. Under such leadership how can we escape reaching fames highest pinnacle in the life of Wesleyan.

We hope that we have through our persistent and untiring efforts; through our worthy and lasting accomplishments; through our lives of unceasing loyalty to all things Wesleyan; and through the agency of this publication—"The Murmurmontis '21"—inspired every young heart in this dear, old school of ours to do their tasks faithfully, to meet their responsibilities without flinching,—even as we have ever tried to do. May all be inspired by the record our class has made to "do noble things, not dream them all day long; and thus make life, death, and that vast forever, One Grand Sweet Song."

Sophomore Class Editorial

West Virginia Wesleyan has had many classes of which to be proud, but none which were more worthy of her pride than the class of 1922 which made its appearance on the Wesleyan campus September 10, 1918. Some came from the hay-fields and some from the cities, but all have assimilated into an ideal class. We are noted for our optimistic natures and our good times have not been few. Miss Neptune pronounced our Leap Year Party the best class party she ever attended, surpassing even the Faculty parties.

Our flag flew in 1918 amidst all obstacles and twice have we torn the 1923 flag from its high position.

Our class has won distinction for itself in debating, music and art, and many honors for its athletes, humorists and orators. Never before has a class had such prospects; what we lack in numbers is more than made up in quality.

May the class of 1922 maintain its present standing and add new laurels both in college and in the world.

Freshman Class Editorial

The class of '23 made its debut in West Virginia Wesleyan September fifteenth, nineteen hundred and nineteen with an enrollment of one hundred and seventy. It is the largest class that has ever entered Wesleyan and, in this as in other particulars has an enviable record.

Many of the boys of our class were in the service, but were disappointed in not getting to the front. On entering Wesleyan their freshman trials and adventures began; they were soon valiantly fighting against another form of "kaiserism." Into this warfare they put all their pent up energy, and—it brought results. The Sophs began their autocratic rule but we, the oppressed, united in a strenuous effort to break down the shackles of despotism.

Early in the semester we gathered our hosts together, and elected Herman Kirehmer, President; Arthur Upton, Vice-President; Donna Dorsey, Secretary; John Kohrbough, Treasurer.

Our Class Reception held in the Gym, early in October, was voted a grand success by all attending. We became better acquainted and many of our serious "cases" date from this memorable occasion.

The Freshman class has a just pride for her athletes, having seven representatives on the regular football squad, and four on the varsity basketball team. Also we are the undisputed victors in the interclass basket ball contests.

Our ranks have been twice visited by the Grim Monster, Death. The joys of our first months at Wesleyan have been dimmed by the loss of these our beloved classmates—Donald Wallace McWhorter and Rebecca Frances Workman. In our affections they can never be replaced.

In all activities of the college our class has its leaders. Although we have made mistakes, still we can say our first year at Wesleyan has been happy and successful. We look forward to the ensuing years with a confidence born of determination.

BERNICE WELLS.

BOOK IV.

THE DEPARTMENTS

TO ALMA MATER

These pleasant college walks have long embraced
 Our fondest hopes and timid reveries,
 Cemented friendships, known felicities
 That e'er will be our hoarded memories,
 The jewels in life's treasure house most chaste.

And through the years these old historic walls
 Re-echoing youth's perennial, ancient might
 Will mellow with a softer, sweeter light,
 Because our happy laughter made them bright
 And our steps echoed through their stately halls.

All through the years as we pass on our way,
 Our lives will be more mellow, less austere
 Because these sacred walls year after year
 Have shed their hallowed light upon us here
 And made each year a graded yesterday.

O Loved Mother, on thy bosom sweet,
 Pressed close by children's reverent heads,
 And with thine all encircling golden threads
 Entold us while thy sweet kiss weas
 The love and life we lay here at thy feet.

"J' AI UN AMI."

I'll strive to do my part aright,
 Work ever onward, strongly fight
 Until life's end;
 I'll try to clear my life of flaws,
 To do the thinking that's right, because
 I have a friend.

I hold friendship God's greatest gift:
 The heart that knows it will uplift
 To joyous trend;
 He's richer than the millionaire
 Who can with honesty declare,
 "I have a friend."

For he whose only goal is gain
 Is hard and small, he lives in vain,
 And does contend
 'Gainst all that's good. Though gold can buy
 False flattery, he can but sigh,
 I had a friend.

If nothing else were given me
 In life but wealth, I'd wish to see
 That life's quick end;
 My lot would be unhappiness,
 My heart would turn to stone unless
 I have a friend.

Friendship is an ennobling fire,
 'Tis sweet as music from the lyre;
 On friends depend.
 It makes one feel much more a man
 And good to say—as now I can—
 "I have a friend."

And so my days are bright and clear;
 I have a friend to me most dear—
 You comprehend?
 With pledge of friendship him I greet:
 I'm happy then as I repeat,
 "I have a friend."

CLASS HISTORY

On the opening day of school there was gathered together a number of students who were mostly new in their experience at Wesleyan Academy. We organized our class, which will in future years be ranked as one that really added to the student life of the Academy.

Our class is proud of the fact that we have three veterans of the world war among our number, who followed the "Stars and Stripes" over the seas. One of our number spent considerable time on the gridiron with the scrubs, receiving abuse and misuse in order that the college team might be better able to defeat the teams with whom they clashed. Some of the girls started their careers in the line of singing and are fast progressing up the ladder of fame. Others continued their practice of "Tickling the Ivories" and are reaching the stage where it is indeed a privilege to hear them.

The future holds unlimited advantages for this class, that the college classes cannot secure. The large Endowment Fund that is now being raised will put new buildings on our Campus, increase the Faculty, enlarge the athletic schedule and give to this school the advantages that have been in the dreams of the former students since the school was first founded. All of these advantages will, with many others, be ready for this class when its members have finished their prep work and are students in the college.

We have received inspiration and help from those around us, and a love for Wesleyan has grown within us which will always be held dear.

The Department of Education

The Department of Education is divided into two parts: Courses in education for high school teachers, and the normal courses.

In planning and carrying out the training of future teachers, whether for high schools or elementary schools, two principal aims are kept in view:

1. To prepare students for teaching in the kind of schools that they will find when they begin their work, instead of preparing them for teaching under ideal conditions. 2. In addition to preparing the student for teaching in the typical school, he is given a view of the progress that is being made in education so he will have such a vision that he will be able to see beyond the present educational system, and take a part in promoting a better system of schools. These two aims are not at all inconsistent and antagonistic, but they are supplementary.

The courses for high school teachers are for students who expect to teach in high schools after graduation from the College. If a student earns twenty-four semester hours of credit in education as prescribed in the catalog, and does the required practice teaching, upon receiving his degree he is recommended to the State Board of Education for a high school certificate. About fifty students are enrolled in these courses.

The normal courses are of two kinds: the Standard Normal Course, which requires two years after a regular four-year high school course, and leads to a Standard Normal Certificate, accepted by the State Board as a practically permanent license for teaching in any school of the State; the Short Course which requires one year after the completion of a three or a four year high school, upon which the State Board grants a certificate for teaching in elementary schools.

Some of the advantages of attending the Wesleyan normal courses are:

1. Nearly all credits earned can be used toward a degree. A student after a high school course of 16 units can complete both the Standard Normal Course and a degree course in four years.
2. Association with college students of the upper classes.
3. The opportunity to study music, art, and oratory in those departments of the College.
4. Participation in the social life and activities of the College.
5. Members of the regular College Faculty as teachers.
6. Surrounded with religious influence, and the acquisition of religious training.

Another division of the Department of Education is the Training School. This school is for practice teaching and observation by the student teachers. It consists of the usual six grades in charge of three critic teachers, and the junior high school (grades seven, eight, and nine) in charge of one critic teacher. The Professor of Education acts as principal of the school. There are about sixty pupils enrolled.

Music Department Editorial

The Conservatory has reached its highest point of efficiency during present year. In point of numbers all departments have been crowded to their full capacity.

The Piano Department has required full time service from both the Director and his assistant, work beginning at eight o'clock in the morning and continuing until as late as six o'clock in the evening.

The Vocal Department, in charge of Prof. Franklin Edwin Muzzy, has enjoyed much success this year. The College Glee Clubs have been enthusiastic in their work, the Men's Glee Club making a very successful trip of ten days, going as far as Pittsburgh, Pa.

The Violin Department, headed by Prof. Ralph Spaulding, is drawing its students from an ever widening constituency. The faculty strength has been increased by the addition of a first class assistant. The College Orchestra in its annual public concert, was well received by the large audience present. The College Band is a real drawing card on every occasion.

God's Handiwork

Some measure a man by the weight of his gold;
And challenge dire want with distrust;
Some worship the clay that can tread to the tomb
On the prestige of mouldering dust.
And some delve into the depth of the soul
Disclosing a fault if they can,
Forgetting the truth, in their zeal to defame
That God is the maker of man.

Though his spark of celestial fire burns low,
And his life so marred with the blots
The years of sin have stamped on his soul,
That a leopard might envy his spots.
Go fathom his heart, and you'll find therein
Some virtues unfed yet lurk;
Despite the evils his hand has done
He is still God's handiwork.

Though his threadbare shire be faded and torn
And covered with grime and silt,
And his trousers meuded with patch on patch
Till he looks like a crazy quilt.
Don't pass him by with a bouyant head,
Nor mark him as common clod,
For beneath that torn, old man-made garb
You will find the image of God.

Art Editorial

Art is not a gratification, a consolation nor an amusement; art is a great reality. Art is not alone a matter of sculptured stone and tinted canvas. It is very closely allied to science, literature and nature.

Art and literature, when traced back to their beginnings, are seen to have had a common origin and a common purpose. The "Literature" of the primitive man consisted of pictures, and in the "Art" of the primitive man may be found the beginnings of our alphabets. The common purpose was to transmit, through the eye, facts, ideas and emotions.

The whole field of aesthetics extends over "fine nature" as well as the fine arts and without a sensitiveness to the appeal of one, the other would not exist.

This school of instruction has its foundation in the study of form, color, the laws of light and shade, and perspective. It is for the development of the individual's creative ability, because it creates the ability to understand and appreciate all that is aesthetic in art and life.

The development of the appreciation of the beautiful has come to be an important part of the scheme of liberal education. Signs are not wanting that a new day is at the dawning. Art must play a most important part in the reconstruction problems of the world.

Commercial Department Editorial

Business conditions of today are without parallel in all commercial history. Never have there been such opportunities for men and women with usable knowledge of the principles underlying business organization. Imagination is the keynote to all progress. The architect sees the completed building before a brick is laid. The inventor conceives the end to be reached before he constructs a device to achieve the result. The general conceives the plan of campaign previous to giving the first marching order. Just so, young people of today must choose their vocations with a clear conception of an anticipated result to be obtained in both the immediate and the distant future, and the commercial world is urgently calling for skillful executive ability and the trained organizer.

The captains of industry are seeking brains—specialized brains—men and women with trained ability and the initiative for big leadership. Never before has the commercial world issued such an insistent call for competent workers.

Advancement is the watchword of the School of Commerce and its aim to train young people for the needs of the day—not merely to fill clerical positions but to become business masters—industry alone does not insure success. It is but one element. Brain counts most heavily and the person who does not think is already a failure.

In the School of Commerce young people are trained to think as well as to do and are building character and strength for the demands of the day. We reflect upon a past of splendid achievement. We rejoice in a successful present and look forward to a progressive future.

ESTHER T. ROYCE

Professor of Home Economics

Domestic Art Editorial

For the first time, the Murmurmontis of '21 is giving the Wesleyan department of Home Economics due consideration.

Home Economics was introduced into our school several years ago but its importance was not recognized until letters began to file in from practically every county of the state, asking for Home Economics teachers. The state is no longer dreaming of what efficiency in the home should be, but rather demanding that its girls receive in the schools practical training, that will not be closed behind bookcase doors the day after school closes.

Under the auspices of Miss Royce, who comes to us from Cornell, this department is measuring up to the demands. It is not, as is sometimes insinuated, that the girl's purpose in choosing Home Economics as a major is to demonstrate her knowledge to one, but to follow her great work and $150 per will follow her name. Even on the little white stove, as on the sheep-skin of '20, her name will be the same.

Wesleyan College emphasizes not only the intellectual, physical and social phases of life, but it strives for the development of the spiritual side as well. The Wesleyan College Y. M. C. A. is one of the greatest factors we have in the religious life of the school. Through its influence many have gone from these halls with strong Christian characters which have made an indelible impress upon the life of this State and nation.

At the Y. M. C. A.'s annual election in the spring of 1919, Minor C. Miles was elected president. However at the beginning of this school year, it was learned that during the summer Mr. Miles had completed enough work to entitle him to a degree. He was thus no longer a member of the student body but accepted a position on the faculty of Wesleyan Academy. A special election was held, and Beryl H. Barnes was elected to succeed the retiring president. Under his leadership we have enjoyed a rather successful year, and it is hoped that next year the influence of the Y will touch an even greater portion of the student body. Special meetings were held during the winter, lasting two weeks, under the combined supervision of the two Christian Associations. Dr. F. W. Hannon of Drexel Theological Seminary was secured to conduct these meetings, which were a fruitful source of inspiration to all those in attendance.

This year, the Y. M. C. A. lecture course, under the efficient management of Joseph C. Hoffman, presented six good numbers. It was counted a success both artistically and financially. A still more highly recommended course has been purchased for the coming year.

Y. W. C. A. CABINET

Young Women's Christian Association

The Y. W. C. A. represents to a large degree the spiritual training of the girls of the college. We have among our number, girls who will be recognized Christian leaders in the communities where they carry out their life work. The accomplishments of the past year have been gratifying and the plans of the new cabinet predict a very successful year to come.

Student Volunteer Band

The Wesleyan Student Volunteer Band was reorganized a few weeks after the opening of school with eight regular members enrolled. Donna B. Dorsey was chosen leader of the band, and J. Russell Brown, secretary. The interest manifested at the weekly meetings, and the splendid cooperation of the students prove that our Wesleyan young folks are alive to the present day issues which challenge them to give their very best to humanity. Believing that the world is in a more plastic and teachable spirit today than ever before, and that Christianity is the one great remedy for all the great fissures and rifts of sorrow and misunderstandings, we are ready to give ourselves to the task of "Evangelizing the World in this Generation." Two of our members, Marion F. Fortney and Donna B. Dorsey, with two Y. M. C. A. members, Professor M. C. Miles and Ross Bonar, were chosen as representatives of our college at the Des Moines International Student Convention, December 31 to January 4. The vision gained there will be a continued leaven, we hope, which will engender the spirit of missions into our college until the number of our Band will increase and grow into a source of never-failing workers obeying the command, "Go ye."

The following are the members of this year's Band: J. Russell Brown, Cameron B. Casto, Donna B. Dorsey, Marion F. Fortney, Edwin P. Haight, Edwin Heise, Luella Hipkins, Virginia Lake, and Georgia G. Westfall.

EXCELSIOR LITERARY SOCIETY

Excelsior Literary Society

The Excelsior Literary Society has been more enthusiastic this year than usual. The new Excelsior Hall was completed during the summer, so that we might return in the fall of 1919 to find our new home waiting for us. This pleasant surprise afforded enthusiasm to every old Excelsior and ambition to the new members. The opening reception of the Excelsiors was a pronounced success. It displayed the ingenuity plus originality for which Excelsior is famous. We have knocked out of the way all difficulties that we have met, and we have been ascending the ladder swift as the wings of a falcon. While we realize that many improvements may be made we steadily live up to our old reputation of pep and brilliancy. Our programs represent splendid opportunities for the development of many future literary men and women, for we have some members that are even now not unknown to fame.

CHRISTOMATHEAN LITERARY SOCIETY

Chrestomathean Literary Society

This has been a successful year for "Chresto." Her membership has increased greatly. Not only has there been a great number of new members but many former members just returning from the army have been reinstated. The officers of this year were persons of energy and push. They took great interest in the work, and did everything necessary to make the Society a success. Interest on the part of every member has been intense. The literary enthusiasms that smoldered during the dark days of the war burst forth in a conflagration that promises to burn its way thru the centuries to come.

The purpose of "Chresto" is social efficiency. It aims to train its members to think clearly, talk convincingly, and to act with ease, poise and dignity. Yet there is no objection to a little nonsense and fun every now and then since it is realized that a frowning brow is not always a sign of wisdom. "Chresto" is a social center where genial spirits meet and mingle. It is a school in which are trained the men and women who shall fashion and mould our institutions and direct our country in the paths of its glorious destiny. It is a forum in which young America is trained in expression and in the art of public address. About the hearts of the members of this institution are woven many golden chords of fraternal love and eternal friendship.

Professor Frank E. Muzzy, Director and Accompanist.

The Wesleyan Girls' Glee Club is one of the successful organizations in the college. Although because of much sickness and other difficulties, the club did not tour the state this year, it was quite evident from their home concerts that they could have done so with much success. The excellent manner in which the Glee Club rendered its performance in buckhamton attracted and held the attention of the audience from start to finish. The club is very fortunate this year in having as its members two excellent readers, Misses Christine McWhorter and Lois Latham, who took prominent parts on the program.

The Wesleyan Debating Club, typical of the best debating, stands pre-eminently at the highest pinnacle of forensic attainment. School life is incomplete without some clash of scholarly yet good natured opinions on the paramount questions facing the American people. Our analytical observation will reveal a membership of twenty-three of the best members available; a thoroughly efficient and organized group of young men willing to do and dare for the glory of the club whose banner has never touched the ground during this school year. Loyalty to Wesleyan Club cannot be compared; every member has a desire within his heart to do everything possible to maintain the excellence of the past.

The Harding Cup, a trophy of rare beauty and exquisite design, has been the "bone of contention" between the Wesleyan and Webster Clubs for three years. At the beginning of this year a tie existed between the contestants, and the final clash came not many days ago. The rules governing this contest stated that two out of three debates were necessary for either of the clubs to retain the cup. The first of those memorable victories was gained comparatively early in the year by Holloway and Brooks. With such an impetus to spur us forward we were determined to win the second debate, thereby proving a third encounter unnecessary. On April 8th the sonorous rumblings of conflict permeated the atmosphere. In the college auditorium on that day Wesleyan launched an offensive which broke completely the commonly called impregnable wall of the Websterites. This time Hoffman and Bosley brought home the bacon, and today Wesleyan marches forward with banners and an unbroken morale.

What more need be said? Sufficient it is to say that the beautiful trophy now proudly graces a pedestal in our club room.

Prominent among the societies is the Webster Debating Club, named and dedicated in honor of Daniel Webster, the brilliant American statesman. The success of the organization is shown by the ability of the debaters that have upheld her honor in the chapel debates this year. Although organized late, the Club has been on the boom all this year and promises to remain one of the influential organizations of the College.

Last year, owing to the war and the absence of all of our members serving in the army either at home or abroad, we were unable to organize our Club. The new year has brought new prospects to Webster. We are now freed from the uncertainty which characterized last year. Many of our members have returned from the army, and are now active members again. A new interest has sprung up and under the leadership of our worthy officers our Club is pushing to the front, and Webster Debating Club is again on its way to achievement and success.

In order to keep up interest, Miss Minna L. Harding, Professor of Public Speaking, has offered a cup to the winner in a series of debates running through three years. At the beginning of the present year the two clubs were tied, each having held the cup for one year. This year will decide which of the two clubs is the stronger.

Famous in the halls of Webster are those two Websterites, "Hick" and "Demosthenes" Hamrick, who have for many years upheld the honor and glory of Webster. There are also numerous other characters whom we might mention. In all, we have twenty-one of the best debaters of Wesleyan.

TRIANGLE CLUB

Wesleyan Triangle Club

In the year 1917, Annie Dominic, there was formed in the city of Buckhannon, an exclusive and discreet organization, known as the Triangle Club. In the beginning, this club was composed of nine members. Since that time the number has not been changed, so that the membership at the present time is nine. Because of the limited number, each member of the club had the honor of being a charter member.

The above organization was not the outgrowth of any one class, club or society, but is truly representative of all the phases of our college life. The enthusiasm of the club of '17 certainly foretells an organization which will last till the gray walls fall into the deep abyss.

In accord with the policy of the Club, many events of social and educational import have taken place under its auspices. These gatherings have been hailed as howling successes by all outsiders who have had the honor of being invited to these outcroppings of social phenomena. This is not said in a boastful manner at all, for many others than Triangulars have blown the horn of the Triangle Club. The main object of the Club is to start some movement that will foster to a larger degree the social life of the institution that all Wesleyanites hold in such high esteem.

Three of the charter members of our Club have since graduated from Wesleyan. We regret much their absence, but feel that they are the gainers rather than the losers, as a result of the time spent in merrymaking while in the ranks of The Triangle Club.

The membership as it now stands, with the office of each man, is as follows:

Vice President	Paul Scott Harshbarger

When the classes meet to select their representatives for the Pharos Staff, a real sifting process ensues. Only the most brilliant men and women can hope to qualify in these stations of responsibility. The Pharos this year has enjoyed its usual popularity among the students and patrons of our college. The air is filled with prophecies of growth and all-around expansion at Wesleyan. We may all be sure the Pharos will ever take the lead in all forward movements. The Staff this year is made up of wide-awake progressives, who have the proverbial "nose for news." The issues come off the press filled with spicy editorials, news items, personals and a joke column that makes all of us feel important.

We, whose care-worn countenances you have viewed on the preceding page and whose names appear below are individually and jointly responsible for all the mistakes in grammar, spelling, composition, arrangement, etc., etc., that you are finding in this volume. We shall take all your pointed criticisms with a glad spirit as we do the C's our beloved teachers portion out to us because we have to neglect our classroom duties. Our work has been pleasant and we are satisfied if our patrons feel that we have not discredited the fair name of Wesleyan.

Y. M. C. A. Lecture Course. 1919-20

The Y. M. C. A. of West Virginia Wesleyan College can do few things which would benefit the student body and community more than the taking charge of the Lyceum Course. One of the most noticeable signs of a dead community or school is the sign of atrophy caused by a public or student body who are denied the best in the field of entertainment. The Y. M. C. A. seeks to eradicate such a condition, and aims to be philanthropic in this work, seeking no monetary remuneration whatever; the excess profit being used in securing better talent for the subsequent year.

This year witnessed a splendid devotion to this work from the entire student body, which we think is indicative of its interest in high class entertainment, and on that basis the course for next year was purchased. The committee submits the 1920-'21 course as the best ever given at Wesleyan and sincerely desires the patronage of each student and friend of the school.

ATHLETIC BOARD

West Virginia Wesleyan Athletic Council

An effort which has culminated in success to place the Athletic Department of Wesleyan on a firmer and more satisfactory basis was begun at the annual football banquet which was held in the social room of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Buckhannon, at the close of the gridiron season. There had been a great need for an organization of representative college men and alumni who were willing to get behind the athletic machine and assist the director in the usual routine of affairs which mean defeat or success in the athletic world at Wesleyan. President Wallace B. Fleming and Director R. W. Shumaker had conferred on the matter of organizing a council prior to the football fete, and numerous plans were considered effecting an organization with power of control over all athletic matters pertaining to the college.

The football banquet gave opportunity for discussion of the question of organizing an executive board to cooperate with the director of athletics. There was the consensus of opinion that such a body endowed with full authority to act on matters pertaining to such things as schedules, coaches, and other vital matters, would relieve the present embarrassing position where the athletic director has power in all matters relating to his department.

The organization finally wrought out was to consist of two alumni, two faculty members and two students. The matter was placed before the students in chapel with the result that two student representatives were elected to represent the students in the Council, and that by unanimous vote the student body surrendered its power as an executive in the Athletic Association. When the proposition came before the faculty the approval there consisted of the election of two members in accordance with the plan. Two members were chosen from the alumni and the first meeting of the Council was held soon after the Christmas recess.

The athletic director is chairman of the body but has no vote except in case of a tie. The present members are as follows:

Alumni	{ G. C. ARNOLD H. H. WITHERS
Faculty	{ RICHARD A. ASPINALL O. EARL KARICKHOFF
Students	{ BYRON HESS OKEY PATTESON

ABE FISHER

Captain "Abe" by his steady playing and untiring devotion to the team won for himself many honors and at the same time maintained the fine record which he has made through this and adjoining states. This year's senior class boasts this gridiron hero among its members.

WILLIAM SNEDEGAR

"Dad" is not only the greatest quarterback in West Virginia but it is doubtful if there is a better man anywhere than this wily, pivotal leader. "Dad" has been selected as next year's Captain, and everyone from the President of the Board of Trustees to a Freshman "prep" is gratified with the choice.

one hundred ninety-five

ERNEST L. BECK

"Ernie" is one of the most consistent players that ever represented Wesleyan. His work on both the offense and defense was always brilliant. We regret that this grand old star has made his last appearance in Wesleyan football togs. Armed with his sheepskin and his athletic experience, "Ernie" will no doubt be heard of as a coach.

JOHN TSCHAPPATT

"Tishapat" is a big fellow who is blest with unusual football ability and a sunny disposition. With "oodles" of "pep" and fight, he was able to knife through time and again in different games and throw his opponents for losses.

one hundred ninety six

MYRON HYMES

A prominent member of the 1917 champions, Myron was expected to add more gems to his football crown. Unfortunately for the team this regular half back was injured in the early part of the practice sessions. Myron will not report at the training camp next fall. He graduates in June.

LESTER W. RADMAN

"Rad" was the season's sensation, despite the fact that he was unable to gain in some of the big games. "Rad" is one of the fastest men in college circles, an expert dodger, a capable punter and a sure tackler.

one hundred ninety-seven

MAIRE STARK

Maire had already demonstrated his ability in basketball and baseball and just to keep in condition he came out for football. Stark is a fine open-field runner. He will return for next year.

RALPH MARTZ

"Emmy," our veteran lineman, won immortal fame in the West Virginia game of 1917. This year Coach Drumm built one side of his line around this husky chap.

one hundred ninety-eight

ADDISON C. GOULD

"Lefty" is a Wesleyan veteran who enjoyed his greatest success this year. Being one of the hold-overs from 1917's championship aggregation, he was reckoned the mainstay from the start. The confidence placed in him by the coach and the student body was more than upheld by his sterling worth.

HENRY ROHRBOUGH

"Hen" after a few evenings work out won the center job and never relinquished it during the season. We regard this as no mean accomplishment for a first-year man. He was an accurate "passer" and a tower of strength on the defense. "Hen," like his predecessor McCally, is a Buckhannon High School product.

one hundred ninety-nine

ALBERT SINGLETON

"Patsy," a returned veteran of 1916, did not perform as a regular this year. When called upon he entered the game with a "peppery" disposition that was contagious. No man on the squad displayed greater effectiveness as a line plunger.

DON POTTER

Don was a favorite among the fans, due largely to his sensational putting down of forward passes. Whenever the pigskin was started in his direction it was sure to find a resting place. With next year's experience Don should equal any of the Varsity flanks of past seasons.

two hundred

WILLIAM SCHNOOBERGER

"Schnoo" came to us from the navy and proved his ability from the very start. He was the heaviest regular on this year's team. "Schnoo" strikes terror in the hearts of the opposing team. He is a comer and will next year rank high among the eastern football stars.

HAROLD POTTEE

"H" Potter is a product of Wellsburg High School who proved his worth during his initial year in College football. Owing to the presence of a wealth of backfield material, "H" found himself relegated to the side lines in the earlier games of the season. Rushed into the breach he showed rare ability which heralds him a future "grizzer" of renown.

two hundred one

CECIL ROSS

"Cehey" exceeded the expectations of even his most ardent admirers in every game he entered. With "Dad" Suedegar playing his usual game, "Nig" had no chance of handling the regular quarter's job. When Suedegar was forced to retire this Mercury-footed quarter ran the team with confidence and precision. He showed best in the Otterlein and W. & J. game.

TAMBLYN HAMRICK

"Hick" started the season with the "scrubs," but seeing that long service in the Army rendered him unfit for a regular job, he applied some military strategy securing the trainer's berth. As a conqueror of aches and pains "Hick" is a competitor of Sloan's Liniment. His services were secured for the basketball season.

Football Season 1919

Wesleyan started the season with six letter men to build a team capable of upholding its past standard. Through the efforts of coach Drumm and Athletic Director Shumaker, it looked as though Wesleyan would have one of the most successful seasons of her athletic history. Of the letter men that returned, five played in the game in which Wesleyan defeated West Virginia University in 1917. These were Fisher, Beck, Tschappatt, Snedegar, and Hymes.

The season opened with Davis and Elkins College, a team of minor importance, but the game was one that displayed the wonderful speed of Wesleyan's material. They then made their first trip to Alliance, Ohio, where Mt. Union College was defeated in a fast and exciting game. The first defeat came when Georgetown was met at Washington; a hard fought battle in which the opponents scored in the last period of the game. Of the two games following, Wesleyan had an easy time defeating Otterbein and Lebanon Valley.

No doubt one of the best games of the season was played at Annapolis. Here Wesleyan produced real strength and played a hard game. The midshipmen proved themselves better mind horses, but both teams suffered about equally from failure to hold the ball, and the winning element was the stameness of the Navy line. The Navy made all of its points in the first half. Wesleyan's score came with about half of the final period over. A bad pass from the Navy centre caused a fumble, and Fisher grabbed it and ran seventy yards for a touch-down.

So far, the season was considered one of the best, one that all followers of the Orange and Black were very proud of. But following the struggle with the Navy, Wesleyan suffered a most disastrous defeat at the hands of the well-known coach, "Greasy Neale. There is a lot of hard luck in football. The worst kind of it. Boners are not the sole and only cause why a good team goes down in defeat. Hard luck, the jinx or the breaks in a game, blast about as many hopes for gridiron supremacy as any other handicap. Of course in this particular game Wesleyan encountered a team equal to them, but "off color" was the main reason for the defeat.

Severe injuries received in games preceding the encounter with Washington and Jefferson, left Wesleyan without the generalship of William Snedegar. Martz and Tschappatt were also unable to put forth all they had. The result was a defeat that looks bad, but is not as bad as it looks, for the score does not indicate the strength of the Orange and Black, neither does it lead you to believe that the game was full of thrills and wonderful playing—but it was.

The game closing a season that in some respects can be considered successful, was the one that displayed Wesleyan's real speed and strength. Although every man on the team played a brilliant game, Snedegar, Beck, Fisher, and Radman were the most noticeable stars.

Basket Ball

The 1920 basketball five which represented West Virginia Wesleyan is heralded the fastest basketball team ever developed in any West Virginia College. The record is a fitting tribute in itself. Twenty games were won and seven lost. The Keyser Collegians, an independent team of purely professional personnel, defeated Wesleyan twice out of three starts. This five is the only five in the borders of the state to play in class with the Methodists.

The strength of the Wesleyan five can be realized when it is stated that Creighton University, champions of the West by victories over Indiana, Michigan, South Dakota, Iowa, Drake, Colorado and other strong Western contenders, was defeated by Wesleyan 35-33. Wesleyan also scored heavily in the Pittsburgh section by winning a great game 40-25 over Geneva College on the latter's floor. Honors were snatched from the south by a victory of 5-19 over Virginia Polytechnic Institute, runners up for the South Atlantic Championship during the past season. Wesleyan also won a noble victory over Roanoke College 29-18. Roanoke took the South Atlantic Championship in 1917.

The complete record for the season follows:

Girls' Basket Ball.

Although not organized until late in the year, the Wesleyan Girls' Basketball season closed with a creditable record. Out of four games played, three were won by Wesleyan. The first game which was in the form of a try-out was lost to the Waynesburg College girls on January 10, 1920, by a score of 14-9. The other three games were scheduled and played as follows:

Feb. 6, 1920—Beta Delta at Buckingham...W. 13 B. D. 8
 Feb. 21, 1920—Beta Delta at Clarksburg...W. 13 B. D. 10
 Feb. 23, 1920—Princeton Normal at B'k'n...W. 21 P. N. 9

The trip including games with D. & E. at Elkins, F. S. N. S. at Fairmont and Marietta College at Marietta, was cancelled because of its being too near the close of the season.

As a whole the team played consistent ball. The defensive work and floor game of the guards in preventing scoring on the part of the opponents was as big a factor in the game as the speed, passwork, and all-around play of the forwards and centers.

Too much credit cannot be given to the coach and manager of the team, Ernest L. Beck; and Miss Arnett. A better coach than Beck cannot be produced and it is due to his knowledge of the game, his directions and untiring efforts that the girls' five has had such a triumphant season.

The line-up is as follows:

Forwards: Kyle, Spies (Capt.), Watkins.
 Guards: Shumaker, Dittmar, Latham.
 Centers: McCue, Marteny, Paisley.

STATE HIGH SCHOOL CHAMPIONS

Seventh Annual State Basketball Tournament

The seventh Annual State High School Basketball Tournament, held at Wesleyan College, March 11, 12 and 13, proved to be the greatest athletic event ever staged in West Virginia. It far eclipsed all previous tournaments in every respect and when

MYRON B. HYMES, Director

Davis of Carnegie sounded his whistle for the start of the preliminaries, the spacious gym was filled with throngs of visitors from all sections of the state. There was Weston with a cheering delegation of two hundred right on the job and competing for the Fleming Loving Cup offered by Dr. Fleming and presented to the delegation doing the best cheering. Grafton was also represented by a delegation of one hundred, Fairmont with one hundred and fifty, Elkins with one hundred, Clarksburg with two hundred, Charleston with one hundred and the hosts of Buckhannon, and when these cheering clubs got in action it seemed that the roof would be lifted off the big gymnasium.

Forty-eight teams were entered in the tournament this year which number is far greater than any ever entered in previous tournaments. Every section of the Little Mountain State, the Switzerland of America, was represented; New Cumberland came in for the first time, being a representative of Hancock County, the extreme county in the northern panhandle. Many other teams, about fifteen in number, from various sections of the state, received their initiation.

Special trains to Weston, Clarksburg, Fairmont, Elkins, and Sago, were run for the accommodation of the teams and visitors. Hotel accommodations were available for all. The people of Buckhannon generously threw open their homes for the benefit of teams and visitors, and about one hundred available rooms held by the management were not used.

The tournament was planned and directed by Myron B. Hymes, a senior in college and one whose executive ability cannot be over-estimated. Under him were about one hundred and fifty subordinates whose valiant work cannot be questioned. The organization was perfect and worked like a well-oiled machine, with the approval and highest commendation of all concerned. The teams as a whole were stronger than ever before, proving that the tournament is a great coaching ground for green teams, as well as a great experience for the boys participating in it. This fact is further proved by the number of dark horses that loomed forth throughout the tournament.

The winner of the tournament, Clendenin, was presented with a large silver trophy, solid gold basketballs for each man on the team, captured a good number of the individual prizes, and was sent to Chicago as representative of West Virginia in the National tournament. The runners up, Moundsville, were presented with a loving cup, solid gold basketballs and also sent to Chicago. Weston won the Fleming Cheering Cup, and the tournament ended with a kind feeling for everyone and a host of friends were gained for Wesleyan College.

The 1919 base ball team which represented the Methodists, had a good season, playing brilliantly part of the season and making a very creditable showing at all times. Features of the play of the 1919 nine were the superb pitching of Fred Blake, and the development of a number of new men. When the season closed, Ross, Johnson and Fisher were holding down regular berths on the infield, while Cecil Blake, Milliron and Hall were starring in the outfield as first year baseball men. Beck, Dunn and Stark played brilliantly during the season and were counted upon for the heavy slugging. Blake, Meredith, Parsons and Gould represented the hurling department very honorably. No collegiate contests were lost in the state, and the Methodists had every hope to believe that the nine of 1919 was the strongest collegiate force within the state. J. S. Kellison is to be complimented on his success as a base ball mentor. Last spring's record reads as follows:

Prospects for the 1920 season are very gratifying. "Biggy" Reeder, one of the greatest players Wesleyan ever produced, and a most successful "silent coach" while a student here, is on the field this spring, training the men. He has come to the rescue with fine results and from a collection of likely recruits he has turned out a fast, aggressive, and well-trained ball club. He had as a nucleus to begin this year: Captain Dunn, Stark, Beck, Milliron, Fisher, Johnson, Ross and Gould from the 1919 team. Notably among his new material are pitchers McKinstry, Schmooberger, Roberts; catchers, Ross and Lewis; first base, Potter, Radman and Lorentz; and outfielders, Boyd, Hefner, Shrover, Arnette and Kirchner.

The tentative schedule follows:

- April 30, Concord at Buckhamnon.
- May 1, Concord Normal at Buckhamnon.
- May 10-15, trip in Pittsburgh district.
- May 21, Bethany College in Buckhamnon.
- May 22, Bethany College in Buckhamnon.
- May 28, Washington and Jefferson in Buckhamnon.
- May 29 Washington and Jefferson in Buckhamnon.
- June 8, Pittsburgh Collegians in Buckhamnon.
- June 9, Pittsburgh Collegians in Buckhamnon.

Wesleyan College has held a prominent place in the track world in West Virginia ever since the popular sport was inaugurated in the colleges of the state. Thrice has Wesleyan been the undisputed title holder among the colleges of the state, and thrice has the Orange and Black been runners up in the state meets. There having been but four regular meets for titular honors and by Wesleyan having three of them, no college in the domain of the state can claim honors over the Methodists.

Wesleyan, as well as other state schools, did not have track last season in an intercollegiate sense. No meets were held within the state and but few men were developed during the season. Wesleyan, West Virginia, Salem, Glenville, Marshall, and Bethany, each have representative teams this season, and ere the season draws to a close, some class will be recorded on the track history of the United States.

Wesleyan has the state's strongest jumper in Captain Watt Stewart. He is closely seconded by Myron B. Hymes. Wesleyan has the speediest athlete the state has ever known in Lester Radman, twice a winner of the Allegheny Mountain Track and Field Meet of The A. A. U. in the dashes. In this trio and in Fisher, Stark, Graham, Snyder, Deck, Boyadus, Beck, Hatfield, Boyd, Pauley, Babyak, Hickman, Ross, Haught, Bolten, et cetera, Wesleyan is better fortified for a fast track season than in any year in the history of the sport.

A good schedule has been arranged upon which there appear two feature meets. The dual between Carnegie Tech and Wesleyan on May 22 and the Penn. Relays on April 30th and May 1st are the most attractive features of the schedule. Several smaller meets are booked for the month of May.

Who Broke the Hoodoo?

The college baseball season was drawing to a close and the game deciding the State championship was at hand. "Daddy" Scrilmer, who had won most of his games that season, and who it had been decided would pitch this game against his school's old rivals—Daddy had acute appendicitis and would undergo an operation on the day of the game. Lefty McCue had an ankle fractured sliding into third during the last game. Jack North had the mumps. There was only one pitcher left—Guy Harrison.

In spite of Shorty Grubb's great knowledge of coaching baseball and of baseball pitchers, pitcher Guy Harrison was a puzzle. He could pitch six innings of wonderful ball, then in the seventh, walk man after man. And in that inning if he did get the ball across the plate and between the knees and shoulders, anyone could knock it a mile. In the seventh, Guy Harrison acted like a tent with its pegs loose in a wind-storm.

The night before the big game, Coach Grubb went down town to meet an old friend who had come to see Shorty's team play.

"Holden," remarked the coach to his old friend after they had talked a while, "I'm up against it. Don't bet one cent on the game tomorrow, for I've a man pitching who hasn't won a game this year."

"Well, maybe it's just his time to—who is he?" questioned Holden.

"A fellow by the name of Harrison—Guy Harrison," said Shorty. "He's a wonderful man for six innings. Then poof! up he goes!"

In a chair by Coach Grubb's side sat a man who showed little interest in what was being said until Guy Harrison's name was mentioned. Then, when the coach finished speaking the stranger tapped his arm.

"Pardon, friend," said the stranger, "my name is Holman."

"Grubb is my name," said the coach, eyeing the stranger, "and this is my friend Holden."

"Gentlemen," said Holman, "I am just happening through here on a business trip. I am not acquainted at all in this section, nor in this state. But as I understand it, there is going to be a ball game here tomorrow of some importance, and a fellow named Guy Harrison is to pitch for you. May I ask who is this Harrison?"

"Why, Guy Harrison," said Grubb, "is a big yellow dub from a prep school down South. He, to begin with, made no pretense of being a pitcher of note—just came out for pitching and showed stuff. In practice games he pitched two or three innings as is the usual case, and we dubbed him a phenom. We even played him the first game of the season. Well, up to the seventh inning he had fourteen strikeouts and a no-hit game. Wonderful pitching, Control, smoke,—everything. Then, before going into the seventh he asked to be taken out. 'Go on in there, you mut,' I said, angry—'go on in there and win a record for yourself.' Not a man of the opponents had seen first, you see. He went in all right, and the other team ran six runs across before I could get him relieved. 'Is your arm gone?' I asked when he came into the bench. 'Yep,' he said, but I didn't believe him. He worked hard afterward, so, in two weeks I gave him another chance. The same result. He's yellow, that's all."

"I believe," said Holman slowly—sadly, they thought,—"I believe I know your pitcher Harrison."

"Here's a snap of him," said Shorty, bringing his hand from an inner pocket.

"Yes," declared Holman slowly, as lines of pain drew across his face,—"I know him. And I do not believe your man is yellow. You see I live in the town where he went to preparatory school. He is a wonder. But a coach down there nearly mined him. This coach had never been a pitcher, and he didn't know how to treat a pitcher. A kid like Harrison was, can't get out and throw a ball an hour, then pitch two or three innings, day after day, some days pitching whole games, and keep his arm. A man can't do it and keep in shape. But that coach thought it ought to be done. Well, I've seen the kid pitch some wonderful ball, too, until about the sixth or seventh. Then he'd go all in—really go all in. He was overworked. Once he told me that he felt never again could he last over the hoodoo the seventh, and, finally, the seventh became his hoodoo. Now I'm going to stay over and see this game tomorrow, and——"

"By gingoos! I have it!" exclaimed Grubb. "Harrison is going to win tomorrow! You gentlemen excuse me for a while. I'm going to get some pep generators to steal that score board, this night. Old man," he laughed, grasping Holman's hand, "you've won that game for us!"

"Wonder," queried Holman, as Coach Grubb hurried away, "Wonder what he meant—'you've won that game for us'—pep generators—score board?"

"Dunno," smiled Holden, "Shorty's a funny bird sometimes."

While Grubb, Holden, and Holman were winning tomorrow's game at the town hotel, Miss Jane Burr was also winning it in the parlor of the college Ladies' Hall.

"Guy," she was saying, soft and low, with that light in her eyes,—some of us know so well. "Guy, you either win this game tomorrow or take back this pin. Everyone has been saying you are yellow, sometimes I almost believe it. I've done everything but fight for you and no one would fight me or I'd have done that. Now, I'm about through."

"Jane," Harrison answered, "If I lose tomorrow, I don't care what happens after that. If I lose I'm thru with everything. If I lose—oh, I can't think of it, that's all!"

"Please, please, Guy dear, win for me," pleaded the girl.

"I'll win for you and——"

"Just for me Guy dear, just for me." Then she changed—"and if you don't win I'll never speak to you again!"

Then until the preceptress came and turned him out, they kept going over this dialogue.

When the crowd walked on to the college athletic field the following day, everyone inquired concerning the whereabouts of the score-board.

Only the coach and a certain crowd of enthusiastic rooters, who called themselves the Pep Generators, knew. There seemed to be something mysterious about everything. There isn't much to tell about the game up to the end of the sixth. The home team had scored twice, and had prolonged each inning by filling the bases and making the visitors work for every out. Harrison however, had pitched his usual wonderful ball for the usual six innings. As he came into the bench, a boy brought him a note from the crowd. It read:

"I am here to see you break your old hoodoo, for I know you can, and too, to forgive you for losing the big game at home last year. I didn't know where mother had sent you after I disowned you because I thought you yellow. I watched for your name, couldn't find it, so I knew you'd changed it. I've forgiven you boy. Go in and win. I know now that you're not yellow, for you haven't given up trying.

Your dad,

THOMAS H. HOLMAN.

That night, in the parlor of the college ladies' hall, this question was asked every five minutes: "You did win for me, didn't you Guy, dear?" And answered: "U-huh,—yes, Jane—dearest."

"Oh Guy, I told the girls you would!"

Then there'd be four minutes and twenty seconds of near silence.

Nineteen Hundred and Twenty and the Greater Wesleyan

The year 1920 will go down as one of the most important years in the history of West Virginia Wesleyan College. We are completing the Victory Fund of five hundred thousand dollars. When the pledges now being taken are paid in, the total endowment of the institution will reach the one million dollar mark.

The success of this movement is a demonstration of a new awakening in appreciation of the importance of the work which West Virginia is doing. This new awakening is showing itself not only in increased liberality but also in the enlarged attendance which the College record shows at the present time. The attendance is twenty-five per cent in advance of the highest previous peace time record. The present facilities of the College are taxed almost to their limit.

The educational surveys made by the Interchurch World Movement and by the Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church show that our friends beyond the borders of the State now realize the amazing educational opportunity which West Virginia Wesleyan is facing. We are sure that the new awakening will rapidly make it possible for the institution to secure the additional equipment and facilities for the meeting of this opportunity. With one million dollars secured for endowment, Wesleyan will gird herself for the next stage in the advance to her goal of greatness. The next goal will involve the securing of an additional amount not less than one million dollars.

At least one million dollars will be imperatively necessary in order to care for the needs of our rapidly enlarging work. More than a half million dollars will be required for the erection of new buildings which Wesleyan must have.

We need a new dormitory for women. Every room in our present dormitory was reserved more than a month before the opening of the college last September, and it became necessary for us to turn away twenty-five girls who could not come because the College could not be responsible for their care.

We need a new dormitory for men. We also need a central dining hall. We ought to have an educational hall in which to house the Normal Department and Model School. This building would make available the additional classroom facilities to care for our rapidly expanding work.

We will have our new library in the near future. We must have a new heating plant and we must enlarge the Gymnasium.

The first step in this great program of enlargement will be the employing of a landscape architect to lay out our campus ground and to show the proper location for the new buildings contemplated and others that may be needed in our work as the years pass. This will have the attention of our Trustees at once.

The big building program will necessitate additional endowment funds for the proper care and maintenance of the buildings.

The accomplishment of the year 1920 will make possible a vastly greater Wesleyan within the next six or seven years.

The Mule Club

The Mule Club of Wesleyan is a new organization that was formed for the purpose of protecting and encouraging those of our College who have a special inclination to stubbornness, kicking, knocking, braying or any sort of mulishness, and in addition to arouse in those pacific and unassuming individuals, who are never known to strike forth in retaliation against any indignity, a spirit of pugnacity—a la Jack Dempsey.

To solve this dilemma of ultra belligerency vs. aggravated pacifism, this Club is indispensable to the normal development of our beloved College. The stubborn gang organized with Curtis H. Springer as president, a champion poultry expert of Ohio county, and with our Dean as faculty adviser. Under this wisely chosen leadership the walls of Administration Building began to quiver and quake so refractory were these leather-shod representatives of the Balaam family.

The membership committee is on the lookout for pure bred mules and will receive into the local stable any such who are stubborn enough to create indignation in a crowd of friendly students; who are willing to disagree with any measure no matter how wise or faultless it may seem. The peaceable souls are taken in on probation. After developing an ample supply of egotism, intolerance and misdirected self-confidence, they become active members.

To all members is given a license, written or implied, to butt into all conversations, anywhere, at any time, public or private. Even the causal observer will note that the Brother Mules avail themselves of this prerogative on every occasion.

On the preceding page you will view the faces of both active and probationary members. Intelligent judgment must be used in classifying each in his proper rank.
